

FROM THE HEADMASTER

HONESTY & INTEGRITY

For me, some weeks are more pressured than others. When things build up I tend to make careless mistakes.

Last year was one of those times. My diary was particularly busy. I raced home at 5.30pm to grab some dinner before heading back to work for a meeting at 6.30pm. As I backed the car out of the garage and up the driveway, I failed to take the time to check my surroundings. In my haste, I backed right into my daughter's fiancé's car!

The damage wasn't too bad. In fact, the damage to my car was worse. As I stood there in the dark, I was tempted to continue on my way and explain later. An internal conflict began, as though there were two competing characters in my head. They began arguing.

"You should go back inside and own up."

"Why? You're in a hurry. You don't have time for that."

"But it's your future son-in-law."

"The damage is so minor he probably won't even notice."

We all make mistakes. No one is exempt. A test of our character is what we do when we make a mistake.

Last week, at the secondary School assembly, I shared a story of a mistake a student had recently made (without identifying the person). I shared the story, not because of the mistake they had made, but because of how they responded.

This person had sent me an email apologising for the mistake that they had made. They didn't need to do that. They could have easily walked away and no one would have known. But not this person. Their integrity and honesty was something I had never experienced in my years as an educator.

FROM THE HEADMASTER

As a result of that courageous act of honesty, my esteem for that young person has increased dramatically. I would now consider them to be one of the most trustworthy people in the School.

Like me, we all make mistakes. None of us are exempt. But trust and character are grown in our willingness to be vulnerable and put things right.

A key trait on our Character Framework at St Paul's School (or Ways of Being framework), along with Compassion and Kindness, Generosity, Patience and Resilience, Diligence, Loyalty and Faithfulness, Humility, Courage, Respect, and Self-control, is Honesty and Integrity. Aren't these traits qualities that we would love to see in all our children as they grow and take their place in the world?

At St Paul's, we value the development of character as much as we value the development of a person's intellect.

CYBERSAFETY AND DIGITAL WELLBEING

“Techno Panic” was the provocative title of an article in the Weekend Australian Magazine (27-28 April) about the amount of time children spend on screens. I thought it was quite a well-balanced article, given the fact that the issue seems to divide opinion so markedly. I took the main message to be that we should be taking a nuanced approach to the increasing dependence on digital devices for work, communications, education and recreation. Technology is not all bad, nor is it all good. Nor is it going away! Consequently, we need to be selective and well-informed in how we use these new tools.

As an eSmart School, St Paul's has a Cybersafety Committee that meets each term, to make sure that the way in which our students are using information technology is 'best practice'. I'm sure you can imagine that our work will never be complete, as information technology continues to develop at an extraordinary rate. I want to assure you, though, that keeping up with and responding appropriately to these changes is a high priority for the School – especially in those aspects of technology that have the potential to impact on student wellbeing.

We are also being proactive, in terms of developing a Cybersafety and Digital Wellbeing curriculum, to be implemented in classrooms from Pre-Prep to Year 10. The curriculum incorporates the Australian Curriculum – Digital Technologies, as well as the ICT General Capability. Children are introduced to various aspects of using information technology (including cybersafety) in ways and contexts that are developmentally appropriate. At each stage, the curriculum will be mapped against the following key elements –

Digital Security: The ability to detect cyber threats (e.g. hacking, scams, malware, password protection, internet security, mobile security), to understand best practices and to use suitable security tools for data protection.

Digital Rights / Privacy Management: The ability to understand and uphold personal and legal rights, including the rights to privacy, intellectual property, freedom of speech and protection from hate speech; also the ability to handle with discretion all personal information shared online to protect one's and others' privacy.

Digital Safety: The ability to manage risks online (e.g. behavioural risks including cyberbullying, contact risks including grooming and radicalization) as well as problematic content (e.g. violence and obscenity), and to avoid and limit these risks.

Digital Literacy / Critical thinking: The ability to find, evaluate, utilize, share and create content; the ability to distinguish between true and false information, good and harmful content, and trustworthy and questionable contacts online; computational thinking; content creation and curation.

FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR OF FAITH & COMMUNITY

Digital Access / Screen time management: The ability to use digital devices and media, including the mastery of control in order to achieve a healthy balance between life online and offline; specifically, the ability to manage one's screen time, multitasking, and one's engagement in online games and social media with self-control.

Digital Footprints: The ability to understand the nature of digital footprints and their real-life consequences and to manage them responsibly.

Digital EQ / Empathy: The ability to be empathetic and build good relationships with others online; the ability to show empathy towards one's own and others' needs and feelings online; emotional regulation.

Clearly, these are issues that are of concern to parents as well as teachers. We already have a student representative on the committee and would also welcome one or more parent representatives. If this is an area that interests you, and if you are available for meetings during the school day, please contact me by email – n.grant@stpauls.qld.edu.au

EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING UPDATE | TURRWAL READING PROGRAM & EAT UP

St Paul's has developed a mutually beneficial partnership with neighbouring school, Bald Hills State School (BHSS). The partnership has been established through our ongoing support of the Turruwal Reading Program, whereby a group of St Paul's students meet with Indigenous students attending BHSS every Tuesday throughout Term 2 and 3. During the thirty minute session our students mentor the younger students in reading and literacy skills. The program has been running for the past six years and across that time the relationship between our two schools has developed significantly.

SECONDARY SCHOOL

The St Paul's Service Learning team is also continuing to support families experiencing difficulties at Bald Hills State School through the Eat Up Program. This program involves our students preparing lunch packs for students whose families may be struggling to provide lunchtime meals for their children while they are at school. The simple lunches our students prepare provide these kids with a nutritional meal to help get them through the day. Last Monday we had a team of students produce over 50 lunch packs. Eat Up will happen each term and is one simple way of supporting families in our local community who are experiencing hardship.

SELF-PUBLISHING WORKSHOP – A HIT!

A self-publishing workshop was recently hosted by the centre for Innovators and Entrepreneurs (CIE).

We thank Dr Tracy Stanley for her time and expertise in educating us on the ins, outs, traps, and tips in the world of self-publishing. We also had such great diverse attendance, staff, primary and senior students, parents, and grandparents. Thank-you to those who attended. I know I feel that little bit more confident and informed to tackle the self-publishing world.

PRIME TIME WITH EVERALD COMPTON

Everald is a long standing member of the St Paul's community. He is a dynamo, a success in business and life, his passion to continue to reinvent himself and learn is infectious. Once a month Everald gives up his time to students, staff, and parents to discuss a topic, answer questions, or be a listening ear. Last week he presented our student and staff CIE members with their CIE polos.

NATIONAL READING MONTH

May is Scholastic's National Family Reading Month! Family reading time is one of THE best ways to grow a child's interest in the wonderful world of books. The Read More in May competition is designed to get more kids reading with their families. The competition was advertised in the month's Scholastic Book Club Magazine. See the information below, and even though we are already into May, you can still join.

PREMIER'S READING CHALLENGE

This month we will also begin the Premiers Reading Challenge, a state wide initiative for all students. Over the past 13 years, 10 million books have been read, with 2.2 million of these books being read in one year (2017)!

The challenge is not a competition but aims to improve literacy and encourage children to read widely for pleasure and learning. For students to successfully complete the challenge they must read or experience the allocated number of books for their year level during the reading period. Students who complete the challenge have their efforts recognised through the receipt of a Certificate of Achievement signed by the Premier of Queensland – Anastasia Palaszczuk.

Keep an eye out for the information that will come home with your son or daughter in the next couple of weeks.

GENERAL NEWS & NOTICES

DARIUS BOYD'S LETTER TO STUDENTS

What would I tell myself at high school if I had the chance to go back in time?

What lessons have I learned in the last 15 years that could have helped me if I knew them back then? It's a great question and I don't pretend to know the answers for everyone.

I know you're lucky to be at a school like St Paul's so you've already got a huge head start. Make the most of that great grounding because every little advantage comes in handy.

I've been lucky to learn a lot over the years and I learned the most from things that didn't go my way. Here are the top five things I would tell my high-school self:

1. Learn to be happy and content with the person you are. When you aren't happy with the person you are, then every little obstacle will feel too big. Once you are the best version of yourself you can handle any hurdle that comes your way. And hurdles will come your way. That's life. You can't avoid that so you have to ensure you can cope as best you can.

PRIVACY AWARENESS WEEK 2019

(12 – 18 May)

Over the past year, in Australia and around the world, privacy has come into sharper focus as one of the top priorities for schools, organisations and the public alike.

Privacy Awareness Week is an annual event that highlights the importance of protecting personal information, and helps organisations, agencies and the public navigate the privacy landscape.

This year, the central message from the Office of the Australian Information Commissioner is “Don’t be in the Dark on Privacy”. Over the course of the week privacy priorities including Data Breaches, Online Security, Your Credit, Health Information and Your Data will be highlighted on the Privacy Awareness Week website: <https://www.oaic.gov.au/paw2019/>

NAPLAN

From Tuesday the 14th of May until Friday the 17th of May, students in years 3, 5, 7 and 9 will participate in the National Assessment Program – Literacy and Numeracy (NAPLAN). This involves tests in reading, writing, language conventions (spelling, grammar and punctuation) and numeracy. This year, like many other schools, we will be moving to an online delivery of NAPLAN. To help facilitate this transition, our school has been involved in Coordinated Practice tests in the online environment, and our students have been accessing the NAPLAN Online Public Demonstration site to further familiarise themselves with the new delivery mode.

It is important to note that NAPLAN is not testing content. Therefore, beyond ensuring that students are familiar with the test formats, it is not something that requires extensive preparation. Teachers will have explained the conditions of the tests and they will have provided students with opportunities to experience these.

Parents can support their children by encouraging them to have a good night’s sleep and to eat a healthy breakfast. Checking that students have the appropriate equipment for each test will also be helpful. Parents can talk about the test in a positive way and they should consider it as an activity within students’ normal learning programs. NAPLAN results provide parents and schools with an understanding of how students are performing at the time of the tests and are not intended to replace the extensive, ongoing assessments made by teachers about each students’ performance.

The NAPLAN website provides some useful information and answers to “Frequently Asked Questions” about:

- NAPLAN in general: <http://www.nap.edu.au/information/faqs>, and
- NAPLAN Online in particular: <https://www.nap.edu.au/online-assessment/FAQs>

Parents of students in Years 3, 5, 7 and 9 should already have received an email outlining specific details about the testing programs. However, should you have further questions about NAPLAN Online please contact either of the following:

Ms Cheryl Wegener, Head of Studies Junior School, c.wegener@stpauls.qld.edu.au (Years 3 and 5)

ANZAC DAY COMMEMORATIONS

The St Paul's Cadet Unit was well-represented at a number of ANZAC Day commemorations last week. Many of the students will have seen our Cadets lead the St Paul's in-School service on Wednesday 24th, and then these students visited Musgrave Residential Care and had an opportunity to chat with the residents which all enjoyed. On ANZAC Day, the Cadets (and parents) were a bit bleary-eyed for Dawn Services at both Bray Park and Sandgate, then following the Cadets joined the morning march through Sandgate.

Whilst it's a busy few days, the Cadets represented St Paul's beautifully and also learnt a great deal about veterans who gave so much for Australia and New Zealand.

Lest we forget.
