Financial Support for Australian Apprentices

As an Australian Apprentice you may be eligible for financial assistance from the Australian Government to help with the costs of undertaking an apprenticeship.

The Australian Apprentice Training Support Payment is available to eligible apprentices commencing from 1 July 2022 in Priority Occupations listed on the Australian Apprenticeship Priority List.

From 1 July 2022 to 30 June 2024, Australian Apprentices training in Priority Occupations can receive assistance of up to $5,000 ($1,250 paid every six months for their first two years), to ensure they are supported to complete their training.

Trade Support Loans (TSLs) are available to eligible apprentices to assist with everyday costs while completing your apprenticeship. You can receive up to $22,890 over the life of the apprenticeship.

TSL is repaid through the tax system, after you have reached the minimum repayment threshold ($48,361 for 2022-23). When you successfully complete your apprenticeship you will receive a 20% discount on the amount you need to repay.

The Living Away from Home Allowance (LAFHA) is an allowance for eligible apprentices during the first three years of training.

See the Australian Apprenticeships website for more information about these incentives.

National Indigenous Training Academy

The National Indigenous Training Academy provides traineeship opportunities in tourism and hospitality, retail, and horticulture that can lead to rewarding careers in those growing industries.

Another important detail: our programs are located in some of Australia's most incredible places.

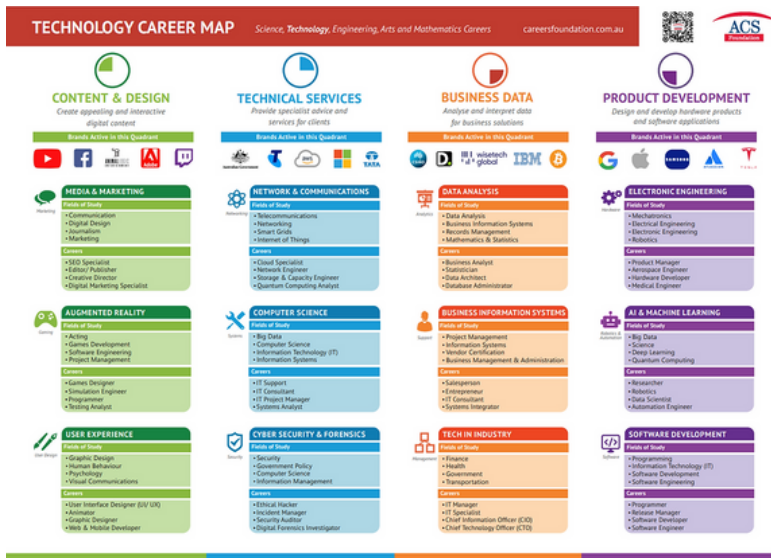

Located in the Northern Territory, about 450km from Alice Springs, Ayers Rock Resort is a one-of-a-kind destination near Uluru-Kata Tjuta National Park. Staff live in the small town of Yulara, and most employees walk or ride a bike to and from work. Here, you'll enjoy a full range of sports and recreational facilities, shop at the nearby supermarket, enjoy discounts at Red Ochre Spa, and, of course, soak up the natural beauty of the Red Centre.

Located 80km from Cairns at the gateway to the Daintree Rainforest, Mossman Gorge Centre is an award-winning ecotourism development that introduces visitors not only to the environment of the region but also the Kuku Yalanji people who inhabit the area. The town of Mossman, with a population of just over 1,700, features recreational facilities, a community pool, a supermarket, takeaway restaurants, and more. Free community programming includes money management and parenting courses.

The Australian Computer Society Foundation created the ICT (Information Communications Technology) Careers Wheel as a resource to assist Australian students to identify study and employment options in the technology sector.

By grouping fields of study, skills and job roles, the map and wheel outline common pathways from study to work.

Additionally, the Foundation assists students with finding work experience placements, internships, and entry level roles.
